

TRUCK TRAIN SPENDS NIGHT HERE

Assist Farmers in Threshing Grain. Speeches on Good Roads and Farming at Mt. Vernon.

The truck train of the Joplin and Pittsburg, Kan., dealers arrived at Monett about 7 o'clock, Friday evening and spent the night here. They left Monett at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning for Granby and Neosho, after which they returned to Joplin.

At Mount Vernon, Friday afternoon the Lawrence county farmers were introduced to the motorized farm. Trucks were employed in the routine work of the farm and demonstrated many advantages over horses in the efficient accomplishment of harvest and threshing tasks.

The trucks went to the farm of A. G. Carter, formerly the John E. Ruckert place, one mile north of Mount Vernon, and there hauled oats from the field to the threshing machine, carrying more than double the number of shocks that are hauled on horse-drawn wagons.

Preceding the demonstration the Monett boys' band played on the square in Mount Vernon. At that place the crowd was addressed by M. Moorehouse, farm economist, and Loren E. Seneker.

The truck train left Carthage early Friday morning and went to Sarcocoe enroute to Mount Vernon.

The boys' band is having a jolly time and are being made much of everywhere they go.

GOV. GARDNER ON

ADVERTISING

Once when Gov. Gardner was in Macon, Mo., he was introduced to a young merchant who had built up a splendid business there largely through newspaper advertising. Gov. Gardner said to him:

"You're on the right track, friend, and if you continue that policy and carry the goods you'll always have the trade. This is an age where a business concern can't afford to keep out of the papers. Competition is sharp, and if you let up a while some other fellow will run off with your trade. You've found that out, and that's why you've succeeded so well. People read the newspapers as much for what to buy as for the news. I never heard of a fellow going broke on judicious advertising."—Team Work.

MAN WITHOUT HANDS

DOES WONDERS

Rev. F. M. Johnson, who is visiting his daughter at Hastings, Neb., writes the following account of M. E. Ferris, of Clarinda, Iowa, who has no hands. Mr. Johnson says: This man, when he was 21 years old, met with the misfortune of losing both hands by coming in contact with electric wires carrying 2,200 volts.

It has been sixteen years since this accident occurred. He now has artificial hands and he is quite an expert in the use of them.

On June 30 my daughter, Mrs. A. E. Livingston, and I with many others witnessed Mr. Ferris give a free demonstration on the street in Hastings, Neb. He feeds himself, using knife, fork, spoon and drinking cup. He writes a beautiful hand with fountain pen or lead pencil. He dresses and undresses, combs his hair, shaves with safety razor, laces and unlaces his shoes, lights and smokes a cigar as gracefully as any man and removes and replaces his hands.

Two of the most wonderful feats are playing the piano or organ and harp at the same time and he drives and controls his especially equipped Ford runabout. He wears glasses with sidebores, which he puts on and off as quickly as anyone.

Ferry carries with him a small organ, harp and chair. After giving a free demonstration he tells the people that he is going to pass through the crowd with a small basket and each one who drops in an offering will receive from him a card containing his picture and history with a fac simile of his writing. By this means he pays his traveling expenses and the upkeep of his home and family in Clarinda, Ia.

If a man without hands can accomplish as much as Mr. Ferris has, what are the possibilities for those in health with all the natural members of the body?

Rev. F. M. Johnson.

Mrs. L. A. Anderson spent Friday evening with friends in the city, enroute from Eureka Springs, Ark., to her home at Douthat, Okla.

FORMER EMPRESS EUGENIE DIES

Widow of Napoleon III was 98 and Left $30,000,000. Exiled For Many Years.

Madrid, July 11.—The former Empress Eugene of France died here this morning. She was 98 years old.

Forty-four years of the life of former Empress Eugene were sparkling in the successive roles of the Spanish Countess, Eugenie Marie de Montijo, traveling through Europe, a visitor to the French court, wife of Napoleon III., and an occasional regent of the French Empire. Then in a day the whole structure of imperial eminence collapsed. The other half of her life was mournful, so much so that Eugenie had said: "I wish I had passed when the shadowy fabric of my dream fell apart."

That day of disaster was the 4th of September, 1870, when she and all Paris had heard of the defeat and capture of Napoleon at Sedan. The Empress was popularly accused of bringing on that disastrous war with Prussia. Historians have since declared that there is little to support such charges, but the riotous mobs of Paris, shouting for the new republic, which the deputies proclaimed, stormed the palace of the Tuileries and howled imprecations upon Eugenie's head until the Empress became convinced that her life was in peril. Flight was decided upon and she fled across France to the channel and the secret boarding of a yacht for England.

The fall of the Empire was followed by the death of the exiled Emperor Napoleon III., in England three years later, and the killing of his only son, the Prince Imperial, while in battle with the English against the Zulus. The Empress, in the twoscore years that followed, found intimate friends in England and interest in travel, including visits to her former haunts in Paris.

It has since been estimated that the fortune of the ex-Empress amounts to $30,000,000. A report was published in Paris several years ago that she had been induced to leave her entire estate to the church, but this has not been confirmed.
